

Biography

Brian M. Fiore
Army Senior Fellow
Deputy Under Secretary of the Army

Brian Fiore joined the Army Senior Fellows Program in October 2007. By virtue of Mr. Fiore's competitive selection as a Senior Fellow, the Army has recognized his accomplishments and leadership potential for Senior Executive Service. He is currently implementing the Army's human capital management concepts for the Deputy Undersecretary of the Army.

Prior to his selection as a Fellow, Mr. Fiore made an impact on a National-Strategic level and his work continues to have lasting implications on the Army and the Nation. As a lead analyst in the Grow the Army initiative for the Force Management Directorate, Headquarters, Department of Army, Mr. Fiore was responsible for the analytical underpinnings of the Army's force structure analysis that justified a 74,200 soldier growth in Army force structure and manpower (across all three components) to the Secretary of Defense and the President of the United States. This analysis resulted in approximately $70 billion increase in the base Army Program for the Program Budget Review 2009-2013 and was the first large Army Endstrength increase in decades. Overall, Mr. Fiore's work had an historical impact on Manning, Training, Equipping, Sustaining, Stationing, and Organizing the Army at the highest levels.

Prior to his work at the Force Management Directorate, Mr. Fiore served at a Program Analyst for the Manpower and Force Programs Analysis Division of the Program Analysis and Evaluation Directorate (PA&E). While at Army PA&E he was responsible for the analysis that successfully defended $29.5 Billion of Army Modularity funding to the Office of the Secretary of Defense. He also led the development of new methodologies and analysis to determine directed Army force structure cuts and rebalance as a result of the Quadrennial Defense Review, Total Army Analysis, and PPBE processes. Mr. Fiore also has experience as an Operations Research Analyst at the Center for Army Analysis. He served as a member of the Center's senior management team and was appointed as one of the Center's Strategic Partners to the Army's Headquarters Staff. In his role as Strategic Partner, Mr. Fiore was responsible for maintaining relationships with key Army Staff Leadership. In this role, his major accomplishments include conducting combat service support analysis for the Army Staff in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom, an assignment at the Office of Secretary of Defense, and capability shortfalls analysis in support of Army Modularity efforts.

Mr Fiore earned a Master of Public Administration Degree from the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga as a Housing and Urban Development Fellow and a bachelor's degree in Political Science and History from the University of the South in Sewanee, TN. His awards include numerous challenge coins, certificates, as well as the Superior Civilian Service Medal and the Army Achievement Medal for Civilian Service. He was also named a "Young Fed on the Cutting Edge" by the Partnership for Public Service. He entered the civil service as a Presidential Management Fellow.

Mr. Fiore is a native of Southern New Jersey and is married to Eliza Jacobs of Buffalo, New York. They reside Alexandria, VA.
